Put each of the words in italics in the correct form so that it fits into the text. You may need to change some part of the word or add an element at the front or at the end or add another word. Also make sure the form of the verb is correct.

There is an example at the beginning.

1. An interview with a police diver Paul Johnson.

Journalist: How did you become interested in diving?

Paul: When I was young my parents (live) - lived - in Spain. I did my first serious dive when I was ten with my mother and father. I can remember it now. My parents had an (argue) ¹ about it. My mother (think) ² I was too young. My father said it was her (decide) ³ so she came with us!

J: Have you got any diving qualifications?

P: Yes. When I was 18, I took a diving (examine) ⁴ and became a professional diver. The examiner said I was born to be a diver!

J: Where did you learn about diving for the police?

P: While I was at university I saw an (advertise) ⁵ for the police in a newspaper. I contacted them and soon I (invite) ⁶ to take an interview. The interviewer was a police diver and we talked for a long time. I knew then I wanted to be a police diver. I trained as a policeman first and then I did a special training course to become a police diver. It was really hard!

J: What do you do as a police diver?

P: People usually think police divers have to look for bodies all the time. It isn't true! My job is never the same and I love the (feel) ⁷ of excitement every time I am called out. We examine plane crashes, look in rivers for things like guns or (knife) ⁸ and we often have to rescue people at sea.

J: What qualities do you need in your work?

P: Well, you need to be an excellent (swim) ⁹, of course. And you have to be (physical) ¹⁰ strong because diving in British rivers and canals is not like diving in the warm sea. It can be very cold, very dark and very smelly!

28. From an article

These days many students and workers complain that they never have enough time to accomplish tasks. The hours and minutes seem to slip away before many planned chores get done. According to time management experts, the main reason for this is that most people fail to set priorities about what to do first. They get tied down by trivial, time-consuming matters and never complete the important ones. One simple solution often used by those at the top is to keep lists of tasks to be accomplished daily and check them regularly through the day.

Which would be the best title for this text?

- a) Stressful Work of Top Managers
- b) Common Complaints about Work
- c) Learning to Manage Time
- d) Accomplishing Routine Tasks

29. From the daily press

Fast food restaurants work hard to get more and more customers. Big lights and TV advertisements are not enough. The waitresses wear special uniforms, there are lots of big mirrors and bright colours. Many of the fast food places have special offers for families, and do their best to attract children and teenagers. Some even organize children's birthday parties. For busy mothers with no ideas and plenty of money, a birthday party at McDonald's can save a lot of time and trouble.

The word some in the text stands for ...

- a) families.
- b) mothers on maternity leave.
- c) teenagers.
- d) fast food restaurants.

30. An article in the daily press

Dogs help people get well

Joanne Gray is a nurse. Often her patients are people who have now returned home from hospital but are not ready to go back to work. She also spends a lot of her time visiting people still in hospital. * They look forward to seeing her, especially because she doesn't go alone. She takes her dog, Bert, with her. Joanne says than Bert makes her patients feel better. Bert started going to work with Joanne four years ago and she is sure that he has made a real difference. Her patients feel calmer and happier when the dog is with them.

- b) Joanne's visits are very important for her patients.
- c) Joanne went to see her patients last week.
- d) That is a lot of extra work for her.

31. From an article about information technology

A breakthrough in computer design could lead to computer technology being available in the poorest parts of the world. An IT company has developed a laptop computer that will only cost 100 dollars. It has all the functions of an ordinary computer including WiFi and 1 GB of storage. Since the price will be low, the designers hope that the laptop will be available to children in poorer parts of the world. The computer is powered by turning a handle and, *___, it does not need an electricity supply or batteries. This should make it even more attractive to schools in the developing world.
